Compass Service Framework now a finalist in two FM Awards

Eurest Services, part of Compass Group PLC, is a finalist in both the BIFM Innovation in Technology & Systems Award and the i-FM e-Business Award, one of the PFM Partnership Awards. Eurest Services has been shortlisted for these awards with the Compass Service Framework (CSF), a comprehensive standard operating platform for the delivery of facilities management.

The CSF incorporates a web-based, knowledge-management system which leverages the company's global facilities management expertise and brings together best practice management processes and operating procedures from around the world. By capturing these processes, procedures and systems the CSF provides consistently high standards of operating service management and service delivery solutions for our clients.

Steve Davies, Managing Director, Eurest Services (FM), Compass Group UK & Ireland said: "The CSF has enabled us to develop from a foodservice to a multi-service company. It has benefited us hugely in terms of the service we are able to deliver to our clients and I am delighted Eurest Services and the CSF have been nominated for these two awards."

The BIFM 2010 Innovation in Technology Award is an independent award for technology innovation in FM across every scope of service. It relates to technology, systems, use of space and service delivery. The PFM i-FM e-Business Award recognises how the sector uses new technologies to improve business processes and performance in FM and property related activities. Entrants could be working in partnership with expert partners or using in house resources on initiatives to utilise new technologies.

The winners of the BIFM Awards will be announced on 11th October at a Gala event at the Grosvenor Hotel. The e-Business Awards will be announced at the PFM Awards dinner on 3rd November at The Brewery in central London.
